Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Rural Motor Express and Highway Transport Engineering: Papers Presented at the Annual Meeting of the National Highway Traffic Association Held in New York City on May 14, 1919 The greatest problem confronting us today, is the high cost of living, but we are fortunate in possessing two dominating factors, which if applied and applied in the right way, will tend to lower food costs to the place where it properly belongs. I refer to good roads and highway transportation. Highway transportation is already here, but, with the exception of a small percentage, our roads are not adequate to efficient haulage over them. To make this form of transportation efficient and economical we must have a solid road bed - heavy enough and firm enough to allow for speed and tonnage. You cannot have these if you are operating in mud. Mud retards progress, your operating costs increase and hence you are not able to give your patrons transportation at a figure which could be called economical, nor can you expect to receive from your operation...
